RENTON, WASH. – Seattle Reign FC forward Ami Diallo has been named to the Côte d'Ivoire Women's National Team roster for the November international window, where Les Éléphantes will face Senegal in a series of three friendlies. The series opens Friday, November 27 at Stade Olympique Alassane Ouattara in Ebimpé, Abidjan, and continues at the same venue on Tuesday, December 1 and Friday, December 4.

Diallo, 26, helped Côte d'Ivoire win the 2026 Women's FIFA Series in April, scoring in a 2-0 victory over Pakistan in the final. She also made two appearances at the 2026 Women's Africa Cup of Nations as Côte d'Ivoire returned to the tournament for the first time in more than a decade. Les Éléphantes went unbeaten in the group stage to win Group B before falling 2-1 to Algeria in the quarterfinals.

Diallo joined Seattle Reign FC on August 18, transferring from ASEC Mimosas and signing through the 2028 NWSL season. She scored 31 goals for ASEC Mimosas in the 2025-26 season, the second-most in the Ivorian Division 1, as the club won its second consecutive league title and reached the final of the CAF Women's Champions League. Diallo was also one of three finalists for the 2025 CAF Women's Interclub Player of the Year award. The forward has yet to make her NWSL debut.
