MATCH PREVIEW

HERRIMAN, Utah (Thursday, October 22, 2026) – Utah Royals FC (14-4-10, 46 pts) remains at America First Field to host its last home match of the regular season against Seattle Reign FC (13-4-11, 42 pts) on Friday, October 23rd, with kickoff set for 7:30 p.m. The Royals are sitting at 6th in the overall league standings, and will rely on the home field advantage on Friday to notch a win against the Reign, clinching them a spot in the NWSL 2026 playoffs.

Last Saturday, the Royals fell to Kansas City Current in a 2-0 loss in front of a home crowd. The Current opened their account in the 21st minute with Haley Hopkins converting a corner kick and giving the away team an early 1-0 lead. While the Royals struck back with a 67th minute header from Cece Delzer, she was ultimately unable to find an equalizer. The visitors doubled their advantage in the 90+1st minute when Hopkins notched another with a right-footed strike that solidified a 2-0 win over the Royals.

Now, Utah remains at home for its last regular season match at America First Field, hosting the Reign in its second matchup against the club this season. The last time the Royals met the Reign, history was made for the Club with a dominating 3-0 road victory on April 26th. The victory marked the largest away win in club history and lifted the Royals into the third spot in league standings. The first goal of the match was notched by Royals captain Paige Cronin, who scored in under a minute of the initial whistle, giving her both her first goal of the 2026 season and the fastest goal in club history. Minutes later, midfielder Narumi netted her first goal for the Royals, doubling the Club's advantage and marking the first time the Royals have scored twice within the first 10 minutes of the match. Lastly, Royals Golden Boot leader Cloë Lacasse notched a shot that solidified Utah's 3-0 lead in the 45+1st minute. The clean sheet could be attributed to goalkeeper Mia Justus, who made a massive late-match save, preventing the rivals from finding the net.

Seattle enters the matchup against Utah with a 13-4-11 league record and 43 pts, sitting at 8th in the overall League standings, only three points away from the Royals. The Reign are coming off its 13th win of the season, having found a 3-1 victory over Chicago on Sunday. During the match, Seattle's Maddie Mercado scored her first NWSL brace, the second goal coming as her fifth header of the season. The Royals are 3W-3D-9L in its all-time meetings against the Reign, with the rivals holding the edge in its all-time meetings. Sitting just above the cutoff line for playoffs, Seattle will be fighting hard to find a win on the road.

URFC has bounced back from each of its last six losses with a win in the next match, so with a loss at its backs, the Royals will be looking to find the vital three points from a win this weekend. Entering its last regular season match on home turf, Utah will strive to recreate the magic from its previous meeting against Seattle by finding early goals from a depth of goalscorers and continuing to remain solid on the back line in its 29th matchup of the 2026 campaign.

VETERAN EXPERIENCE THROUGHOUT THE SQUAD

Utah Royals enters the 2026 season with a core group of experienced players who have competed at the highest levels of club and international football. Veterans such as Mina Tanaka, Kiana Palacios, Lara Prašnikar, Narumi Miura, Dayana Pierre-Louis, Cloé Lacasse, and Nuria Rábano bring valuable experience to the squad after competing in top leagues across Asia, Europe, and North America. Their leadership and composure provide stability throughout the roster while helping guide younger players as they continue to develop within the club's system.

DEFENSIVE CHEMISTRY

Utah's defensive unit provides a strong foundation heading into the 2026 campaign. Kate Del Fava, Kaleigh Riehl, Tatum Milazo, Ana Tejada, Nuria Rábano, Kameron Simmonds, and Janni Thomsen form a versatile group capable of playing multiple roles across the back line. Central defenders Del Fava and Riehl have developed into a reliable pairing, combining physical presence, aerial strength, and composure in possession to anchor the Royals' defensive structure. Del Fava's consistency and leadership alongside Riehl's positioning and defensive awareness provide stability in the heart of the back line. On the flanks, Janni Thomsen adds an attacking dimension to the defense, frequently pushing forward to support the offense and contributing goals from wide positions. Together, the defensive group allows Utah to maintain a compact shape while still creating opportunities to build attacks from the back.

GLOBAL ROYALS

Utah Royals FC continues to feature a roster with strong international representation, with players from across the globe bringing elite experience and accolades to the squad. Japan's Mina Tanaka and Narumi Miura, both senior internationals for the Japan Women's National Team, bring experience competing in major international tournaments and top domestic leagues. Mexico's Kiana Palacios, Club América Femenil's all-time leading scorer and a regular for the Mexico Women's National Team, adds proven attacking pedigree. Slovenia's Lara Prašnikar, the captain and all-time leading scorer for the Slovenia Women's National Team, provides leadership and international scoring experience. Spain's Nuria Rábano and Ana Tejada bring experience from Spain's top professional leagues and youth national team systems, while Haiti international Dayana Pierre-Louis has represented her country in major regional competitions. Rounding out the international group is Canada international Cloé Lacasse, who represented her country at the 2023 FIFA Women's World Cup and the 2024 Paris Olympics. This diverse international presence strengthens Utah's lineup, bringing a variety of playing styles, high-level experience, and global football perspectives to the Royals' squad.

ATTACKING VERSATILITY

Utah's attack features a variety of profiles that give the Royals flexibility in the final third. Kiana Palacios and Lara Prašnikar often lead the line, using their finishing ability, movement, and hold-up play to operate closest to goal as the team's primary scoring threats. Just behind them, Mina Tanaka, Courtney Brown, and Cece Delzer provide creativity and vision in attacking midfield roles, linking the midfield to the forward line while creating scoring chances and arriving in dangerous areas themselves. Out wide, Brecken Mzingo, Cloé Lacasse, and Paige Cronin bring pace and direct attacking play from the wings, stretching opposing defenses and delivering service into the penalty area. Utah's attacking approach is further supported by its outside backs, with Nuria Rábano, Janni Thomsen, and Kameron Simmonds frequently pushing forward along the flanks to provide width, overlap with the wingers, and deliver crosses into the box. This combination of attacking options across the front line and from wide defensive positions gives Head Coach Jimmy Coenraets multiple tactical avenues to create scoring opportunities throughout a match.

STORYLINES

MIDFIELD BALANCE

The Royals' midfield group plays a key role in linking the team's defensive and attacking phases. Led by Narumi Miura, Utah's midfield rotation includes Alex Loera, Aria Nagai, Dayana Pierre-Louis, and Madison Hammond, who contribute defensive coverage, distribution, and creativity in possession. Miura's composure and vision help dictate the rhythm of play, while players like Loera and Pierre-Louis provide defensive stability and ball-winning ability in the center of the field. Nagai and Hammond add energy and technical quality to the midfield, supporting both defensive transitions and attacking build-up. Together, the group provides balance and control, helping Utah maintain possession while connecting the back line to the attacking unit.

SQUAD DEPTH

Utah Royals enters the 2026 season with increased depth across the roster, giving the coaching staff flexibility when managing player minutes and matchups. With multiple players capable of contributing at each position, Head Coach Jimmy Coenraets has the ability to rotate the squad while maintaining a competitive level of play during the long NWSL season. Leading the attack are proven goal scorers such as Mina Tanaka, Kiana Palacios, and Lara Prašnikar, each capable of producing consistently in front of goal. Tanaka enters the season after earning the team's Golden Boot in 2025, highlighting her importance as a primary scoring threat, while Palacios and Prašnikar bring their own finishing ability and international experience to the Royals' attack. With several players across the roster capable of contributing offensively, Utah possesses multiple scoring options throughout the squad.

BETWEEN THE POSTS

Utah's goalkeeping group remains one of the club's most reliable position groups. Mandy McGlynn continues to establish herself as one of the league's top goalkeepers with her shot-stopping ability and command of the penalty area, while also earning opportunities with the United States Women's National Team, adding valuable international experience to the Royals' back line. Mia Justus provides depth and development potential within the position group and made several appearances for Utah last season, highlighted by a standout performance that earned NWSL Save of the Week honors. Rounding out the goalkeeping unit is DeAira Jackson, who adds athleticism and strong distribution to the group. Jackson's presence gives Utah additional depth between the posts while continuing to develop within the club's goalkeeping environment, creating strong competition and support within the position group throughout the season.

BUILDING MOMENTUM INTO 2026

Utah enters the 2026 campaign looking to continue the progress made under Head Coach Jimmy Coenraets. The Royals developed a clearer tactical identity during the previous season, emphasizing organized defending and quick transitions into attack. That progress was highlighted by a club-record eight-match unbeaten streak during the 2025 NWSL season, spanning from late August through early October, the longest unbeaten run in team history. With a strengthened roster and greater continuity within the squad, Utah aims to build on that momentum and translate its late-season success into consistent results throughout the 2026 campaign.

STORYLINES

FORTRESS AMERICA FIRST FIELD

America First Field continues to serve as one of the most vibrant soccer venues in the NWSL. Located along the Wasatch Front and sitting at over 4,400 feet above sea level, the stadium presents both an energetic and physical challenge for visiting teams. The Royals' supporters play a major role in creating that atmosphere, with passionate fans filling the stands and bringing constant energy through chants, drums, and unwavering support throughout the match. That home-field intensity helps drive the team's performances and makes America First Field one of the toughest environments for opponents in the league. Utah will look to harness that momentum from its supporters as it aims to secure crucial points at home during the 2026 season.

NEW ADDITIONS MAKING AN IMPACT

Utah Royals added several key players ahead of the 2026 season, strengthening multiple areas of the roster. New arrivals bring a mix of international experience, technical ability, and positional depth that complements the returning core. These additions provide Head Coach Jimmy Coentraets with additional tactical options while increasing internal competition for starting roles across the squad.

CONTINUED GROWTH OF THE CLUB

As Utah Royals continues to establish itself in the NWSL following the club's return, the 2026 season represents another step in the organization's long-term development. With a strengthened roster, growing fan support, and a clear footballing philosophy under Head Coach Jimmy Coentraets, the Royals are focused on building a competitive identity while continuing to grow the club both on and off the field. The club has continued investing in player development, international recruitment, and a strong team culture that reflects Utah's commitment to competing at the highest level of women's soccer. As the squad gains greater continuity and experience playing together, the Royals aim to translate that stability into improved performances and results throughout the season. Alongside progress on the pitch, the organization continues to expand its presence within the Utah soccer community, strengthening connections with supporters and inspiring the next generation of players across the Wasatch Front.

Team Executives

Sporting Director Kelly Cousins - Cousins brings a unique blend of elite football leadership, roster-building expertise, and high-level coaching experience to Utah Royals FC, helping guide the club's sporting vision and long-term growth within the NWSL. A former professional player, Cousins began her career in 2007 with Reading FC, where she played five seasons before an ACL injury ended her playing career early. Following her retirement, Cousins transitioned into the club's front office as Director of Women's and Girls' Football before rising into coaching leadership. In her first season as Reading's Head Coach, Cousins helped secure the club's first-ever promotion into WSL 2 (now the FA Women's Championship). Two years later, she led Reading to a first-place finish in the 2015 WSL 2 campaign, earning promotion to the Women's Super League and helping shape one of the most remarkable promotion stories in English women's football. In her role with Utah Royals FC, Cousins oversees player recruitment, roster construction, and football operations. Working across departments to build a competitive squad and establish a sustainable talent pipeline for the club's continued success.

Assistant General Manager Connor Oniki - Oniki has been a member of the Utah Royals FC organization since its inception, beginning as a legal intern in 2022 before transitioning into a full-time legal counsel role less than a year later. A graduate of Harvard Law School, Oniki holds a Bachelor of Science degree from Brigham Young University. He specializes in roster rules and regulation compliance, salary cap management, and all domestic, federation, and FIFA compliance. Oniki manages the club's agent relationships and also oversees talent identification and scouting, supporting the club's recruitment pipeline.

Director of Scouting and Recruitment Harvey Bussell - Bussell

joins Utah Royals FC with an extensive background in elite talent identification and global recruitment, bringing valuable European experience to the club's continued long-term build. Prior to arriving in Utah, Bussell served with Manchester United Women, first joining the club in 2022 as an emerging talent scout before being promoted to Head of Recruitment ahead of the 2023 campaign. During his time with United, Bussell played a key role in strengthening the squad through strategic recruitment, helping secure signings such as USWNT goalkeeper Phallon Tullis-Joyce, Netherlands international Dominique Janssen, and Women's Euro winner Grace Clinton. In his role with the Royals, Bussell leads the club's scouting, talent identification, and player recruitment efforts both domestically and internationally—building pipelines, evaluating targets, and supporting roster development at every level as Utah continues to compete and grow within the NWSL.

Head Coach Jimmy Coenraets

Now entering his second season with Utah Royals FC, Head Coach Jimmy Coenraets continues to lead one of the most exciting long-term builds in the NWSL—guiding a young, high-upside roster with a proven ability to develop talent, set elite standards, and turn belief into results.

Coenraets entered the professional coaching ranks in 2016, earning recognition for his strong leadership, modern tactical approach, and ability to build competitive teams through structure and culture. A holder of the UEFA A Coaching License, Coenraets blends high-level coaching education with real-world success, implementing detail-driven preparation that supports both player development and team performance.

Before arriving in Utah, Coenraets delivered one of the most impressive turnarounds in Belgium. When he took over OH Leuven in 2020, the club sat last in the league. In a remarkably short span, he reshaped the team's identity and raised expectations. By his second season as manager, Coenraets had transformed Leuven into a title contender, earning league-wide recognition and being named Belgium Pro League Manager of the Year.

That same transformation mindset has already shown itself with the Royals. Under Coenraets' leadership, Utah built momentum during the second half of the 2025 NWSL season, catching fire post-summer break and putting together a historic run that became a defining storyline of the year. The Royals produced a club-record eight-match unbeaten streak (wins and draws), the longest unbeaten run in team history, highlighted by standout performances across the pitch. The streak ended on October 11, 2025, in a hard-fought 3-2 home match against San Diego Wave FC.
